

Please do not weaken Wisconsin's do not call list, especially for businesses I no longer contract with. If I change my phone service, credit card, etc., I do not want to hear from the former service provider - I terminated the relationship for a reason. Also, do not weaken the rules for businesses that I do have a current relationship with. If I have a savings account at a bank, I do not want to be contacted about special deals on car loans or anything else. My account there should not give them license to harass me with repeated phone calls. Think about it - if an individual repeatedly makes unwanted calls, it's harassment, but if a business repeatedly makes unwanted calls, it's just business? It's my phone and I should not have to suffer from unwanted calls. Thank you for considering my views.
